The Yearbook Dedication

Presented to Marie on Class Day
by Tracie Winn on behalf of the Class of 2013

During our high school years we have all grown and transformed into adults. Many things in our lives have changed along the way - our schedules, teachers, and sometimes, friends - but amongst the rare constants, is one person who has been there with a warm smile. She's one person who greeted us with a sincere "How ya doin', hun?" and actually waited for a response. For her bright personality and abundant care, the members of the class of 2013 dedicate the Yearbook to - everybody's favorite lunch lady - Marie Maciejko.

For students at WHS, stopping by the snack bar at Cafe West isn't just about curbing rumbling stomachs. Standing in line turns from the single minded food scavenge, to friendly exchanges and how-do-you-dos. Marie's upbeat personality changes the tempo for the un-caffeinated students who forgot to get their Dunkies. With a band of loyal customers, Marie's snack line turns into a visit with an old friend. And, a Josh Belinksy notes, "If you haven't been in awhile, Marie will be the first one to let you know."

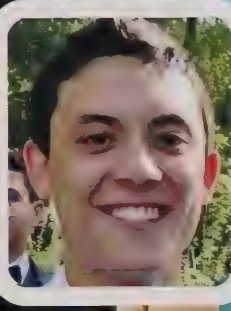

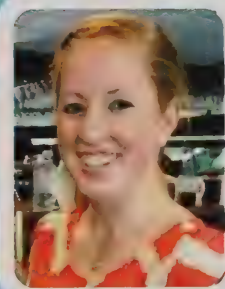

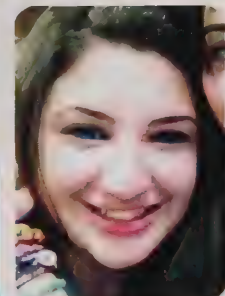

Marie is an unsung hero, working hard to embody the tight-knight community that Westwood High School is known to be. As Kim Huang put it, "Marie is always smiling and energetic behind the counter, making an effort to know each student individually." Jack Jardin joked, "She knows your name, your order, and more about you than you know about yourself." Students are effusive about this lovable woman's compassion. Between homework, standardized testing, and extracurriculars, students are busy and stressed, and truly appreciate how she cares, whether it is wishing them good luck on their exams or asking about last night's hockey game. Ari Ventola said, "No matter what is going on in the rest of the school you can always count on Marie to ask you about your day."

Marie's impact goes beyond the one-on-one conversations - it's the whole atmosphere she creates by the kindness she radiates. Ben Gantert said, "She is very personable and easy going." Nick Adjami said, "Her positive impact on the student body is undeniable" and Sally Mansour observed that "despite the chaos during lunch she always has a smile on her face." In the words of Viveka Mastandrea, "Marie deserves this dedication because of the care and joy she shares with students everyday. Her good attitude is contagious and she treats everyone with respect and warmth."

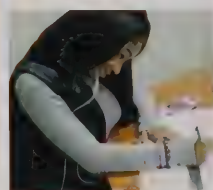

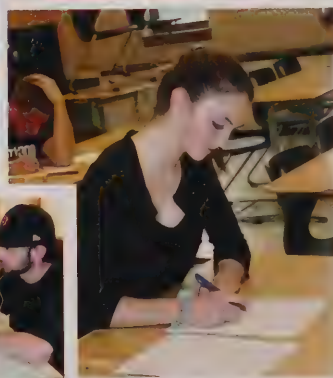

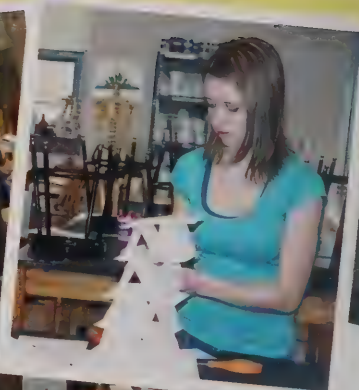

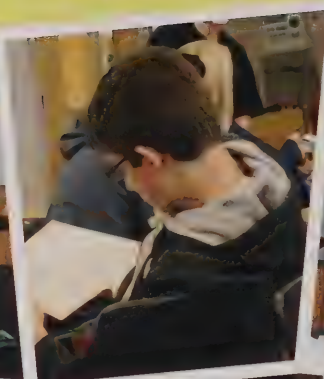

It's clear that Marie loves Westwood. She grew up in Westwood and has worked for the Westwood schools for 15 years. As Bridget Burke said, "Marie wears her Cafe West Polo with love and with sheer joy for nurturing students."

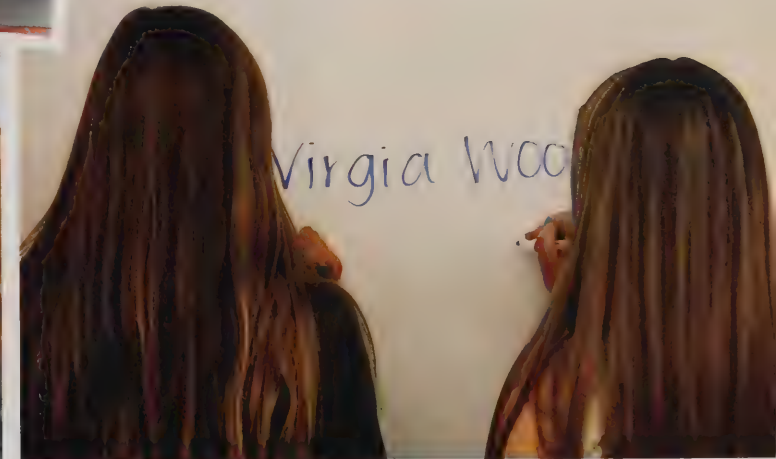

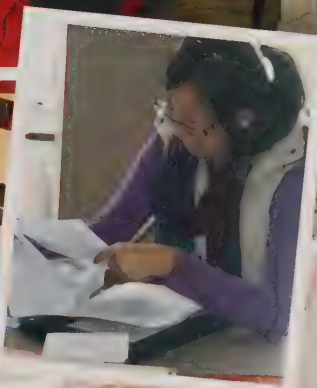

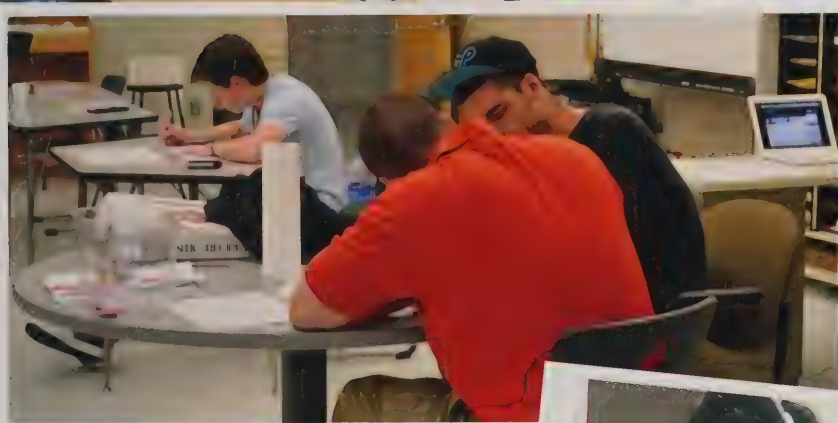

Well, Westwood loves her back! As the class of 2013 prepares to close this chapter of our lives, it's the small things like "last call for toasted bagels" and "the usual" that we will miss.

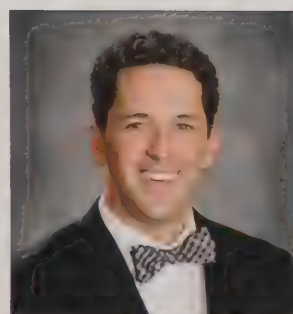

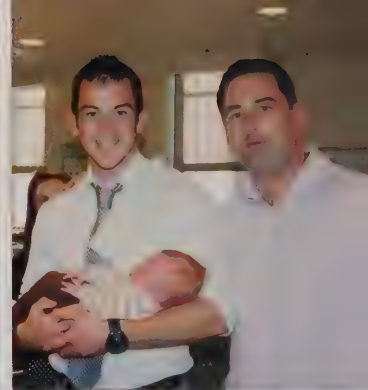

So, on behalf of this year's senior class,
Marie, we thank you for you ever-present smile and kindness.

For many years, Mr. Cronin has been there to help create a friendly and welcoming environment at WHS. He greets students in the morning, chats with them during their free time, and supports the rest of the staff whenever and however possible. Hannah Musto writes, "Every morning, I can always expect a 'hello' from Mr. Cronin. As a freshman, being new to a school of about 1000 people, he made me feel comfortable and accepted." His love for and commitment to WHS is evident to staff and students alike. Sean Patterson writes, "Mr. Cronin is the person I think of when I think of WHS staff."

Thank you & Congratulations on Retirement!

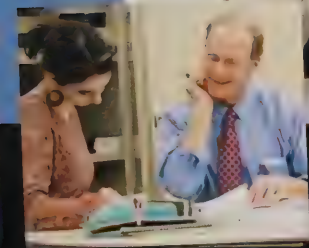

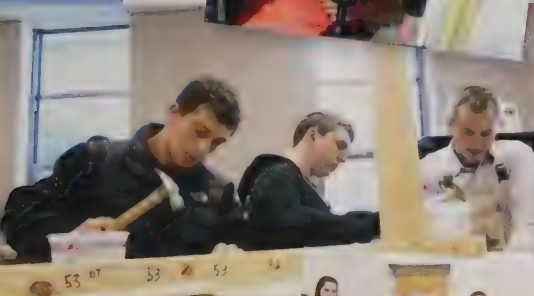

Mrs. Hanlon has been an integral part of WHS' community for over thirty years. Her passion for teaching has brought literature to life for thousands of students. Chris Irvine writes, "She is an awesome teacher and advocate of learning. She means a lot to this community." WHS staff members have a great appreciation for Mrs. Hanlon as both a mentor and friend. She has always been extremely supportive of both students and staff, regardless of any challenges she has faced. Allison Fleming writes, "She is a dedicated, hardworking teacher who is always willing to help."

For nearly twenty years, Mrs. Kaiser has been instrumental in developing the arts programs in Westwood. She has not only shared her passion for art with her students in the classroom, but has also helped create a venue for her students to share theirs with others: Encounters with the Arts. Her colleagues are vocal about their respect for her skills as a teacher and an artist. She has also helped to instill confidence in students about their abilities to express themselves through art. One student writes, "She gave me good tips on my art work that truly made it a lot better."

Westwood High School

2012 NATIONAL BLUE RIBBON SCHOOL

Westwood High School was named a 2012 National Blue Ribbon High School by U.S. Secretary of Education Arne Duncan on Friday, September 7.

The school is one of just 38 high schools nationwide to be identified as "Exemplary High Performing," a designation reserved for schools that are among their state's highest performing schools, as measured by state assessments or nationally-normed tests. As the name suggests, earning Blue Ribbon status is the highest honor a United States school can receive from the U.S. Department of Education.

"The entire Westwood High School community is thrilled about earning Blue Ribbon status," said Sean Bevan, Principal of Westwood High School. "It's an extraordinary achievement that speaks to our students' dedication, our faculty and staff's expertise and commitment to their work, and our families' support of education. Our students, along with their teachers, are committed to preparing for future success in college and careers; this award is a powerful reminder of the importance of that hard work."

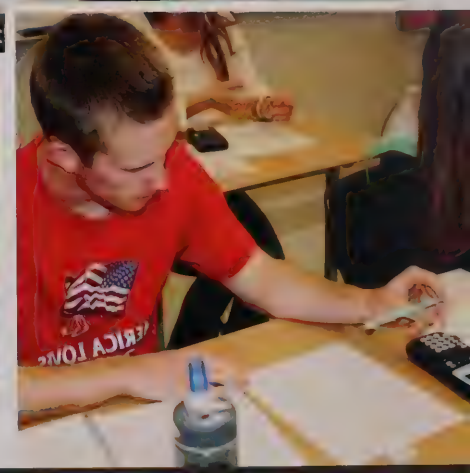

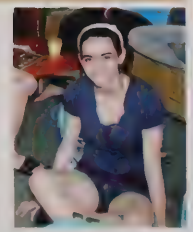

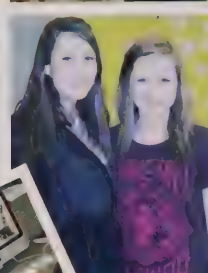

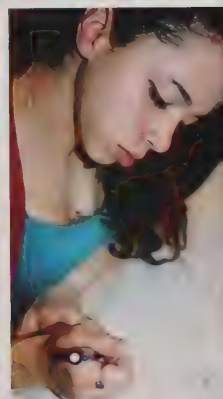

Westwood Superintendent John J. Antonucci commented that while the Blue Ribbon designation is a reflection of a high-quality school system, it is also a reflection of a high-quality community. "The residents of Westwood share our commitment to excellence and have a long tradition of supporting their public schools. We value and appreciate that support and work hard to ensure that all Westwood students receive a first-class educational experience."

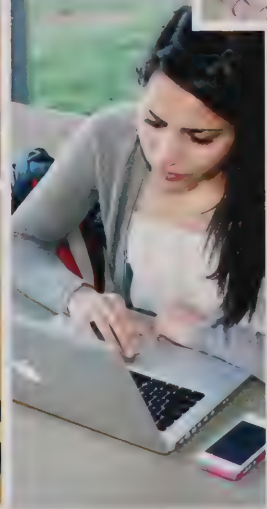

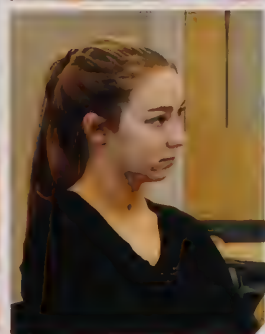

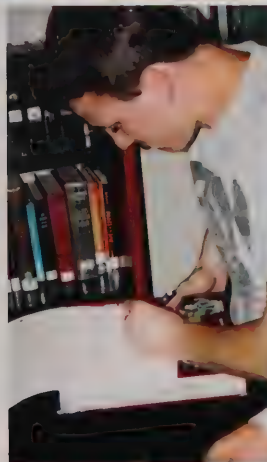

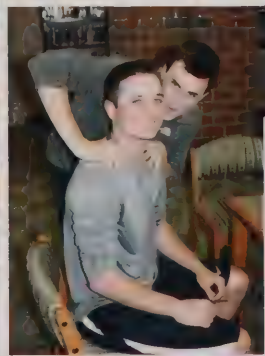

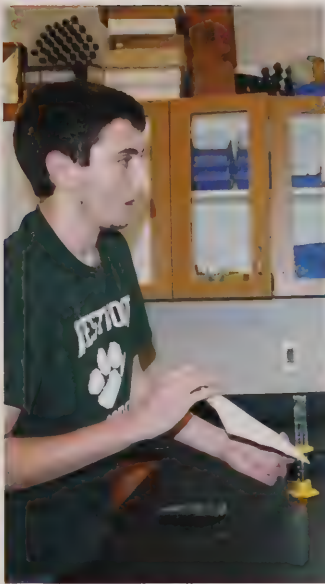

Principal Sean Bevan, along with a teacher from the WHS faculty, will represent the students and staff at a recognition ceremony on November 12-13 in Washington, D.C. He said, "The event will be a proud moment to celebrate a school culture and climate that strives to nurture and support the success of all of its students. I am honored to accept the award on behalf of our students and staff."

According to the Department of Education, "A total of 417 schools nationwide may be nominated [each year], with allocations determined by the numbers of K-12 students and schools in each jurisdiction." This year, 219 public and 50 private schools from all grade levels will be awarded National Blue Ribbon status. Westwood High School is one of 47 public and private high schools earning the designation: WHS and 38 others are designated as "Exemplary High Performing", while nine others are recognized as "Exemplary Improving."

Academic Decathlon

Members of the Academic Decathlon compete against teams from across the state, drawing on their knowledge of a wide range of topics from art and music, to history and science.

The club prepares for competitions in a variety of ways including taking tests, listening to lectures, reading passages, watching videos, or listening to soundtracks.

Amnesty International

Amnesty International is an activist group focused on bringing awareness and change throughout the world. Founded on the principles of fighting injustice and promoting human rights, the group holds a variety of fundraisers and school-wide support days.

Asian Culture Club

The Asian Club's goals are to promote diversity in the school by organizing events on different Asian cultures. The group provides an opportunity for students and faculty to meet and share their interests. Members have hosted a variety of activities including a Chinese New Year party and a bubble tea table at lunch!

Anime Club

Culinary Club

The Culinary Arts Club gives members a chance to cook one dish per month. Members meet in the High School kitchen located in the cafeteria where they will learn kitchen safety and how to prepare and cook a dish. Recent endeavors include pasta salad and chicken!

Creative Writing

The Creative Writing Club offers a supportive environment for writers of all skill levels to share their ideas and experiment with different writing styles. Each meeting will include writing time, the opportunity to share one's work, and the chance to give and get feedback.

French Club

The French Club Celebrates the French language and culture. At meetings they plan a variety of fun activities that they can do as a group while speaking in French!

Drama Club

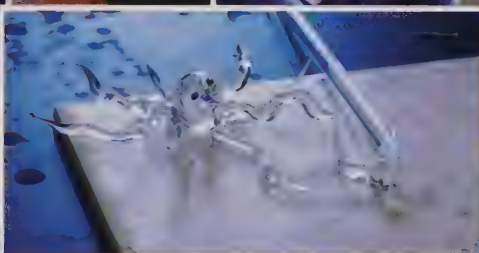

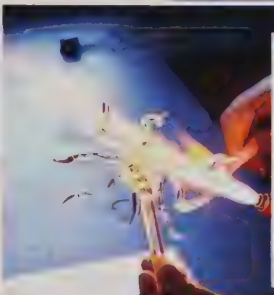

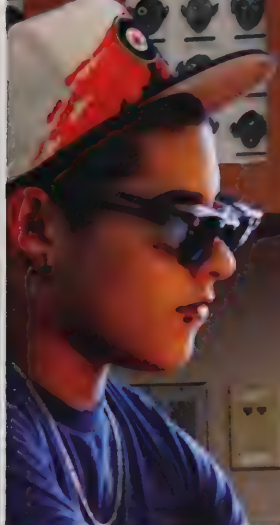

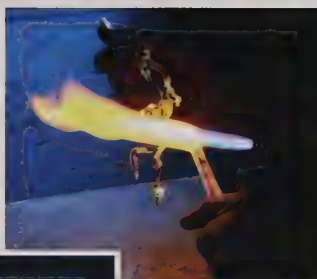

Drama Club offers students the chance to develop their theatrical skills in a relaxed, welcoming environment. A typical meeting involves creating sketches, improv, and various games.

Glassworking

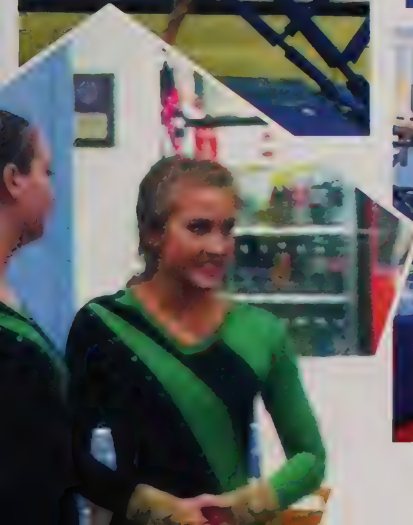

The Glassworking Club allows members to learn how to manipulate glass rods using a torch. There are three instructional meetings to learn the basic skills involved for all projects. Afterward members are free to make their own sculptures or to learn more techniques and work with colored glass. Members also are able to practice fusing and slumping using a kiln.

Gymnastics Team

"This was Westwood High School's first year ever with a gymnastics team. Although the sport was brand new to many people, we grew and improved together, like a family. This past season was almost a test run of the sport, but I wouldn't change a thing."

-Kaitlyn Hogan

Gay Straight Alliance

The Gay Straight Alliance promotes acceptance and equal rights for the Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual, Transsexual, and Questioning (GLBTQ) community. Each year members host Ally Week to empower and educate students. Members also invite the WHS community to wear purple in remembrance of the GLBTQ youth who have died by suicide and harassment. In the spring GSA organizes the Day of Silence, a representation of the void and pain created when individuals feel forced to keep quiet about who they are. GSA aims to provide a happy and safe environment for everyone.

KIVA Club

KIVA club strives to make a difference through fundraising and community awareness of universal problems; it is an organization dedicated to promoting social justice and equality around the globe. The group works in partnership with kiva.org in order to give microloans to people in need to help them with small Business ventures or Essential needs.

Key Club

Key Club focuses on helping the surrounding communities. It encourages its members to do at least 30 hours of service each year. The group organizes an annual Holiday food drive, collecting non-perishable food donations, to benefit families in need during the winter season. In February, the club sells Valentine carnation to raise money for the Alzheimer's Foundation. This year they also participated in the Walk for Breast Cancer, the Rotary Clubs Recycling day, as well as numerous local fundraisers and events. Key Club promotes volunteerism and gets people involved in community service.

"I got my first taste of Yearbook as a freshman and four years later I am still amazed at how much work it truly is. First, there is the grunt work – editing photos, making copies, and attending an inconceivable number of school events. Then, there is the communications side - orchestrating photo shoots, advertising book sales, and leading tutorial sessions. But we can't forget the hundreds of emails with club advisors, sports captains, and students, as well as the constant scavenge for information and candids. Speaking of candids, there is a camera permanently stuck to your side; whether it be a free block or a latin class activity; there is always one more thing you need to capture. Yearbook is a never-ending to do list. Once you're done with one thing it's on to the next. For instance, did you triple check every name, photo, and headline? Did you approach the school from every angle, every social group, every interest? Each year, the Green Years committee works tirelessly to bring it all together. From Saturday sessions to all-nighters, the group truly puts in a hundred percent to impress the community with a cherished book encompassing the circus that is high school. Along the way, we become a family. The late-night jam sessions in A157, the insane jokes & ever-present laughter - the staff as a whole is something I find truly remarkable. Looking back on the four years and thousands of hours spent working on the book, I can genuinely say joining the Green Years staff was the best decision I ever made. Thank you to all my amazing staff members who made it worth it."

- Tracie Winn

versus

"I think it's an awesome experience because the whole Junior and Senior class get involved. It demonstrates our school spirit and shows how much dedication and support we have for our school. It's been an ongoing tradition and I loved finally being apart of it!"
- Jamison Oneill

SENIORS POWDERPUFF

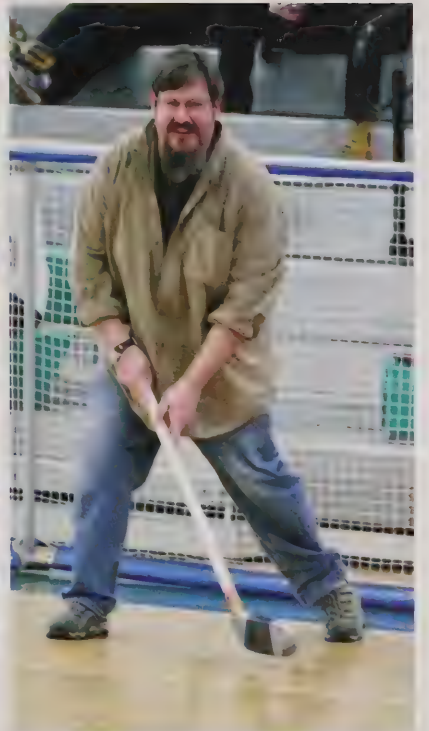

"Powderpuff is an awesome tradition that allows the Juniors and Seniors to have some friendly competition and show off their athleticism. It was great to see our grade bonding, but the best part was definitely the fact that the Seniors finally got their well-deserved win!"
-Sean Patterson

 SPORTSMANSHIP: Jackie Whalen
 UNSUNG HERO: Erin Reilly

"This season was special due to the bond created throughout the team and the way we worked hard for our accomplishments! The team grew really close this year, and all of the different personalities made it really fun to be around everyone. We had an awesome season, going 6-2 and beating one of our rivals, Medfield. We had a lot of talent this year, but even more so, we worked really hard and it paid off!"
 - Sam Kitchen

"We started this year with a lot of new cross country runners, but by the end of the season we all truly came together as a team and as a family. We trained especially hard this season and improved our times considerably each race."
 - Andrea Simi

"We had an amazing group of girls this season. We had so many great moments, from beating Holliston under the lights on our home field to our team picnic at Sheehan. Our team was so close this year and I will really miss everyone!"

-Stephanie Mace

"Playing soccer is hard work but it's also a lot of fun. The thing that makes it so great is how close the team has become in only 3 months, and how much fun we have being together; we are a family. You can feel how much everyone cares about each other, and how much everyone cares about the success of our team."

As an Athenian kingdom prepares for a royal wedding, four young lovers seek refuge from their parents' disapproval by fleeing into the woods. In the midst of chasing their new found freedom, their lives quickly become more complicated when fairies use herbal spells to intervene in their pursuits of love. When they meet a group of performers rehearsing a play for the royal wedding in the forest, such chaos ensues that the lovers later wonder whether it was reality or a dream. This comedy about the complexity of pursuing true love took the stage for this year's fall play. Written by William Shakespeare, this theater classic tells a tale of infatuation and passion while combining humor, fantasy and imagination. WHS' hilarious adaptation of this story left audiences smiling and rooting for a "happily ever after" for the lovesick couples.

When Beverly Hills sorority girl, Elle Woods (played by Katharine Neader), is dumped by her boyfriend to pursue someone more "serious," she strives to prove that appearances can be deceiving. Elle exchanges shopping for studying as she prepares to do whatever it takes to win him back. The audience joins Elle on her journey to Harvard Law School, where she hopes to show that fashionable girls can be taken seriously, while discovering her genuine passion for law. Based on the 2001 film, this musical features many bubbly and upbeat songs, reflective of Elle's optimistic personality. Complete with Elle's trademark pink style, WHS ensembles captivated their audiences with fun and highly energetic performances that reminded patrons of the importance of being true to themselves.

PASSING NOTES

Passing Notes is an a cappella group. Its members are passionate about singing and investing a lot of time into rehearsing advance arrangements of contemporary songs. Passing Notes performs at school concerts, Encounters with the Arts, and other community events.

JAZZ BAND

Jazz Band is a selective band, for which members must audition to be accepted. Students perform rock, jazz, funk, and other popular music genres. This year they performed at both the springs and winter concerts, as well as Encounters with the Arts.

Decked out in semi-formal wear, the Class of 2013 set sail on the elegant "Spirit of Boston." As the boat toured Boston Harbor, the class enjoyed the buffet and made lasting memories with their peers. Towards the end of the cruise, the yearbook staff announced the results of the class-voted senior superlatives (both serious and silly) to much applause and laughter.

TRI-VALLEY LEAGUE

Class Address

PRESENTED BY STEVEN KANE
SENIOR CLASS VICE PRESIDENT

Good Afternoon administration, faculty, parents, guests and classmates,

The history of our class is a story, a great movie and it has been 12 years in the making. Twelve years of B-roll, overlays and quick cuts, with tons of hidden stories and inside jokes that could be replayed a thousand times. So, without further ado, here is a story of the class of 2013.

Fade in on all the tiny versions of us as we all took our first step into our elementary schools. Each of those five buildings was dedicated to initiating our quest for knowledge and understanding. The blacktop and the open fields were the main stage for mischief, friendships, snowball fights, tag, and the desperate run toward the swings. We were introduced to a completely new world around us. For some of us, this new world consisted of Diet Coke and Mentos (cough cough Colin Neville), fifty cents for a ice cream cookie, a camera woman who made us look at her inanimate bird called Cookie, or even our trip to the Fisher School in bonnets. Whew, "exciting times." Although we dealt with our share of bullies and indifference between one another, we made friendships that would carry us farther in our quest.

Jump to the next sequence of clips and we all were thrown together onto the battlefield. Middle school: the years we all try so hard to forget. When I started to think about what to say for middle school, I instantly had a feeling of nausea. However, in middle school we all learned some important lessons. Mr. Witt taught Spanish using his dance moves and sound effects, Mrs. Santabarbara taught us to NEVER copy that floppy, Mr. Lawlor liked- hold up - obsessed about pigs, Mr. Bernazzani had a different but effective teaching style with his megaphone, Mr. Hawkmen taught us the importance of color coordination, and Mr. Coleman showed us just how buff he was.

Middle school was that turning point for all of us in some way. We had our awkwardness, we had the moment we got in trouble for rushing the court during the handball tournament, our beach themed semi-formal-drama, our WOSC trip, our "Oh my god, you like-like him? No way!", and horrible acne phases.

On the positive side, we had great times on our Hale trips, Pi Day (Who doesn't love free pie?), Pig Races, and our end of the year science project of sending rockets off on the field. We also looked forward to Ben Cautella every morning on the announcements, greeting us with a funny one liner like: "Even when I say."

Fast forward to High School, we came in thinking we knew everything and couldn't possibly find something new to interest us. However, we were freshmen and we had lots to learn. The battle of middle school might have been over, but it was a whole other universe in high school. We had the new freedoms: free blocks, coming in late, or leaving early, and we could choose our own electives. All those freedoms led to us learning the hard lesson of time management. This meant the overlay of sports, or the play, and school work each day, but we handled it.

Blur over Sophomore year and focus in on Junior year, when we all had to deal with the stresses of college applications. But we persevered through that to get to the most exciting year yet: Senior Year.

Senior year the final thing to render. Walking into the main lobby in September, we could taste how close we all were to the finish. This was it. We had some minor work the beginning of this year but by third term we all had grown into young adults. Most of us with licenses, ideas of where we were going next year and the sweet notions that we were about to complete our last year of high school. In this time, we had constructed a castle out of cinder blocks, gone wild in the DEN, seen our football team win the TVL, danced in our own version of the Harlem Shake, watched and participated in Legally Blonde, snuck off to a day of IHOP, followed the FLOODS, and so many more activities, some of which I better not say.

The special moments that we went through this year have shaped us into who we are today. I couldn't imagine a better grade to grow up with over the years. It's amazing to see how far we've all come. We all have left our own legacy here in Westwood, we all have fulfilled our quest and we all are memorable, sometimes crazy, epic characters in this story. I mean from Mario Perry's incredible dancing skills and confidence; to Asmani Adhav's overflowing happiness; Connor O'Brien's vast wardrobe choices; Jackie McDonald taking sass from no one; Michael Santisi's ability to sing any note, be it high or low; Andrea Simi and her vibrant track spirit days; Graydon Decamps' goofiness; Sarah Nassif and Sally Masour's interchanging Arabic and English conversations; Alex Berluti's color coordination; Julia Tucceri's sarcasm; Billy Reissfelder's triple schwany; Caroline Pidgeon's ability to know everything; CJ Hunter's ability to argue his way out of any situation; and Bridget Burke's lifelong battle to ban homework. It's been great and really fun.

Alas, here we are: this movie is over. It seemed like a flash since we started rolling, and for the parents in the audience it probably seemed to go by even faster. Now it's time to stand up and stretch, discover more of the bright blank canvas of a world around us. There are endless possibilities to the sequels of where we can go, who we will find, and what adventure awaits each and every one of us.

Before you leave, and maybe not right now, I hope everyone of you has a memory of Westwood you will hold onto - One moment in which you can't forget, one moment that sums up this place into a rare fantastic emotion.

Remember everything you've learned from Westwood. Remember the craziness of senior assassins, the all-nighters, the AP studying which consists of you and a jar of Nutella, the snow soccer, the hopscotch and remember how you made a friend at lunch over some curly fries.

Think about your strengths, your talents, your skill set, and feel confident that you are making the right choices. We are a day away from graduating from Westwood high school, our high school: the place where we discovered who we are and what matters to us. Go and replay your favorite moments, relive the tale of us and how you ended up in a cap and gown. You've earned it!

Class of 2013: thank you for being the film, I won't forget.

Commencement Address

PRESENTED BY NATHAN DALEY

SENIOR CLASS PRESIDENT

Welcome administration, faculty, family, friends and the class of 2013. It's a pleasure being able to speak to you guys today. So much to say, so little time. Let's start off with "Congratulations,"... "Nice Job"... while I'm at it I might as well ask, "So where are you going to school next year?" Among all the hackneyed platitudes my fellow classmates and I endure at this time in our lives, the one I despise the most is the phrase "Good Luck." Now, here's what gets me about "good luck." #1: It implies that we need it -- that's a slap in the face alone. #2: It implies that from the moment we as graduates set foot outside these doors our success will be determined by chance, a roll of the dice. I know for a fact that the people sitting in front of me do not need luck to succeed. I have watched them excel academically, athletically, and socially; and they're heading off to some amazing places in the future mainly because they're just that awesome. Now, don't let that get to your heads, guys; we have not arrived yet. But here's some of my advice to help you along the way:

We all have something that propels us—something we can turn to when times are rough, something that rejuvenates our souls. This thing is unique for each individual. Yet, for all, it's a stimulant—your lifeblood. Whether you know it or not, it's what wakes you in the morning, pushing you to live each day.

There are people who are quite adept at channeling their lifeblood. The first that come to my mind are a group of individuals we like to call Adrenaline Junkies. To quote Wikipedia, this label is given to people "addicted to endogenous epinephrine. The 'high' is caused by self-inducing a fight-or-flight response by intentionally engaging in stressful or risky behavior." I'm probably getting strange looks right now. When people hear Adrenaline junkie they automatically think of crazy people. Maybe they are crazy... But to make life rich you must include the element of risk, right? You might not get that job offer, you might not ace that exam, he or she might break your heart, and as I said to myself this morning "Nathan, you might make a complete fool out of yourself while giving the commencement address," but the alternative to taking these risks is a dull existence. In Adrenaline Junkies' case they might get injured or die, but boy what a great life they will have while living it.

Now before I get pulled off stage by Mr. Bevan over here, I am in no way advocating reckless behavior. My own mother would have a heart attack if I decide to emulate the things on Discovery Channel's Man Vs. Wild, for example—a show whose host, Bear Grylls, some of you might know as the most raging adrenaline addict alive. I'm not here to tell you to be like Bear Grylls, but rather to take on his mentality.

The mentality of an Adrenaline Junkie: they have no limitations, and therefore live life to the fullest. There are 24 hours in a day, break that down to minutes and seconds—that's a wicked amount of time. Many of us, including me, waste these fleeting moments. The Adrenaline Junkie lifestyle unitizes every waking second of the day. How awesome would it be going to bed everyday exhausted, yet satisfied because you put in everything you had. Closing your eyes you'll say, "I poured my heart out today and I can't wait to do it all over again tomorrow."

Growing up, especially as a kid in Westwood, there's so much emphasis on getting straight A's, receiving acceptance to some elite university for a piece of paper, moving on to grad school, and then going off to making bank at some high end job... but this isn't the only route success. Luxuries - meaningless objects- can be taken away in an instance. Now, the things that last forever, the things that stick with us, are our experiences.... Class of 2013, seek to find richness in experience, not wealth. Joseph Campbell, the great scholar of religion, said it best when he wrote, "People say that what we're all seeking is a meaning for life. I don't think that's what we're really seeking. I think that what we're seeking is an experience of being alive." Before I go, think back to a moment in time that you wish you could play over and over again, remaining forever suspended, feeling whatever emotion you had at that time wash over you continually. For most, these moments are scarce - abbreviated happiness. Now, imagine having them everyday. Crazy thought, isn't it? But isn't that essentially the motive of Adrenaline Junkies? They live to beat the system, to collect meaningful experiences, to extend happiness. It reminds me of something Mr. Goldman once said to a cast before opening a WHS musical production. He said something along the lines of, "I feel like I haven't worked a single day in my life because I do what I love - the performing arts."

Like Mr. Goldman, your lifeblood might not be adrenaline, but perhaps something less little life threatening, like music, art, athletics, religion or community service; the list goes on and on. If you haven't found your lifeblood yet, don't worry, it's just slumbering, waiting to be found. Go out and seek it, and when you do find it, grab hold of it and never let go.

And that's not cliché - it may very well lead to your greatest success.

Take on the mentality of an Adrenaline Junkie. Live life, be bold, take risk, and don't ever let anyone turn you away from something you love. Congratulations Class of 2013! It's been a great 4 years!

Valedictorian Speech

PRESENTED BY CHRIS FRANGIEGH

Seven years ago I sat at my brother's graduation where the families are sitting now. A student got up to speak, and I asked my mom who it was. She explained that it was the valedictorian, and though it took me another six years to pronounce it correctly, I made it a personal goal on that day to be my class's valedictorian. I put countless hours each night into homework, prepared for tests and quizzes as well as I could, and did my best to not let a bad grade drag me down. It is not until now that I realize no leather bound certificate could ever amount to all I've learned in the past four years. Whether or not I leave high school with the title of valedictorian has no effect on whether I leave with what I've gained. In setting goals, achieving them is not as important as pursuing them as best we can. I'm sure many of you have already set goals for your future: to start your own business, to be drafted onto a professional sports team, maybe to make it onto Broadway. No goal is too ambitious as long as you are ready to give everything you have. What you will learn in pursuing your goals will prove to be just as valuable as actually achieving them.

Along the way, be conscious of time. If the past four years have taught us anything it's that they felt nothing like four years. On our first day together as freshman none of us ever imagined our time together would eventually run out. Now on our final day together as seniors we can't believe how fast the years passed, and many of us wish we made more of our time. Luckily, we have another four years ahead of us. When you get to college, know your time is limited. Get to know everyone, join a club, explore the area. Four years from now when you're sitting at your college graduation make sure you have none of the regrets you may have now.

I'd like to first and foremost thank my parents for their endless love and support in everything I do, my teachers for loving what they do and making learning enjoyable, and finally all of you for being the smartest and friendliest class anyone could ever ask for.

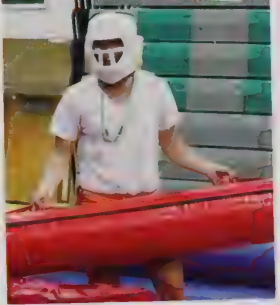

Our parents and teachers love to criticize us for our attachment to our phones, saying we're too dependent on technology and the material world. But I see something greater. We send 200 texts a day and compulsively check twitter not because we depend on technology, but because we depend on each other. They say we shouldn't love our phones because phones can be broken or lost, but so can people. We've all once called someone our best friend who is no longer a part of our lives. A lost phone is forgotten, but a lost friend leaves a legacy within us. Look around. After tonight, you will most likely never see most of these kids again. But they've had an effect on you. They've changed you. Tonight we will come together as a class one final time, but tomorrow morning we will say our final goodbyes. We will walk through the doors of Westwood High School one last time. We will look to our left, and look to our right, with our classmates by our side we will find the courage to begin our journey. We will take a step forward and be in college, the military, maybe the work force. Another step and we will be graduating college, leaving the military, maybe getting a new job. Another and we're starting a family, a few more and we'll be sitting at our kids graduation. Somewhere along the way you will look around and realize your classmates are no longer by your side, realize the image of Westwood High has faded behind you. We will end up in different parts of the world, even lose touch with each other. But no matter what, we will forever be united as the Class of 2013, that common root within us all. We don't have to see each other to remember who we are, to remember the profound impact we've had on each other. We all have great potential, opportunities to change this world. No matter where you go, no matter what you do, always remember where you come from. Think of these kids sitting around you, think of this special place we will always remember, and find the courage to keep walking forward, one step at a time.

I'd like to congratulate all of you on the places you are going next year, and wish you the best of luck.

"I will miss seeing everyone every day and being able to give a smile or a high five as I pass my peers in the halls. I will mostly miss the tight-knit community that makes up Westwood. By getting involved in sports and clubs, I feel like I've been able to really get to know the 230 students that make up the class of 2013!"
- Jackie Kouri

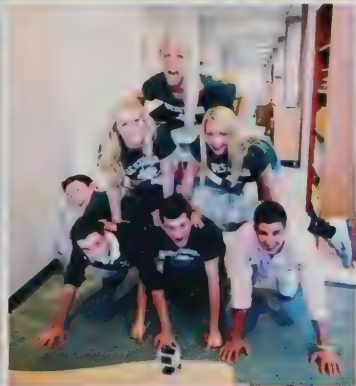

Welcome to Westwood High

A Nation
Blue Rib
School
excellen

"WHS was a place I was genuinely happy and excited to be at every day, and I'll always cherish the amazing memories I made with the people that grew to be my family over the past four years."

– Arev Doursounien

"I'll miss the Friday night football games under the lights, the enthusiasm and pride of the class of 2013, and Westwood track! Westwood means coming together to represent the town you come from. We will always share that in common."

Meredith Kress

"I guess it has to be the people because they've been the force that's shaped me into who I am today. I'll really miss the 230 kids I've grown up with."

- Matt Masi-Phelps

"I will miss the great sense of community in Westwood and all the friendly faces from teachers to friends to coaches!"

- Stephanie Mace

"I never thought I'd say that I miss going to school everyday, but I've had some of my best times and made the best memories with the people in Westwood and I wouldn't change a minute of it!"

- Meghan Kelly

What does Westwood mean to the Class of 2013?

"WHS is a place full of memories. Even after we graduate and go in different directions, we will always remember the memories from the WHS chapter of our lives."

- Ebru Hazar

"I will miss walking through the halls everyday. I could always count on seeing at least a few friends in between classes."

- Danielle Kaplan

"I'll miss aimlessly roaming the school during free blocks."

- Chris Frangieh

"I'm really going to miss the strong sense of community everyone in Westwood seems to hold, and how you can always expect excellence from people here because they all strive to be the very best versions of themselves."

- Asmani Adhav

"When I came into WHS, I was still a kid: I still thought the world worked a certain way and I wasn't flexible enough. Four years later, I've graduated. That child is still in here somewhere; I hope she always is. But she matured and is more open minded now."

- Taline Doursounian

"The thing I will miss the most about high school will be always seeing friendly faces throughout the day. Whether it was in the halls or at practice, you always knew someone you could talk to."

- Catherine Leonard

What will the seniors miss most about high school?

"Although I only attended WHS for two years, I'll miss all the underclassmen, my amazing teachers, and all the seniors that helped make my short time here unforgettable."

- Sean Patterson

"I'm really going to miss my friends the most. We spent every day together; even passing them in the halls, eating lunch or bus rides to away games, I felt that we were always together."

- Bryn MacGillvray

"Westwood creates an environment in which everyone is rooting for one another, not only themselves."

- Margaret Holler

"I'll miss seeing so many familiar faces in my classes and in the hallways."

- Kristina Barounis

"I'm really going to miss the guidance department, especially Mrs. Schock and Mrs. Lapinski! From college acceptances to job applications, they were always there for me!"

- Tracie Winn

"WHS was a great place to learn and mature. It teaches and prepares all of its graduates for success in any field. The memories made in the halls, on the fields, or on stage will stay with all of us forever."

- Kiernan Somers

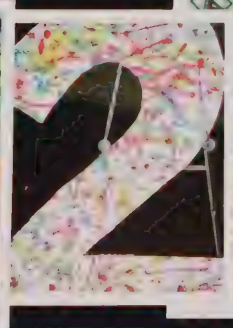

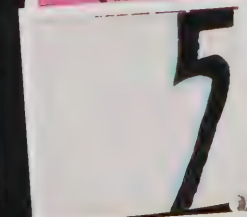

"I will miss the musical the most. To me Westwood is a community where you feel like you know everybody and everybody knows you."

- Katharine Nedder
